Join the hundreds of generous tutors on wheels who are changing many lives by volunteering just one hour a week to help someone learn to read and write.

"I love the time I spend with the students in the Tutors on Wheels program.

They work hard and are constantly grateful for the help.

It is especially wonderful to get the student's excited phone call after taking the U.S. Citizenship Test saying 'I passed!!!'

This volunteer time keeps my mind clicking and warms my heart."

TUTORS MOVING PEOPLE FORWARD

How can my volunteering just one hour a week change a life?

Thousands of adults in our neighborhoods have little or no English literacy skills. They can't read warning labels or help their children learn to read. They go unnoticed because many don't know how or who to ask for help. We help break the language barriers that keep people and communities from moving forward!

By volunteering to be a Tutor on Wheels just one hour a week, you can give an adult student the language tools to:

- Understand prescription warning labels
- Read workplace safety instructions
- Help their children with their homework
- Communicate better in the workplace

Help someone prepare to become a U.S. Citizen

Hundreds of new American citizens got their start in our program. Tutors on Wheels volunteers help students prepare for the U.S. Citizenship exam. Students learn U.S. civics and history while they improve their English skills.

We're Library Pals! Our tutors help students obtain library cards and learn to use the library. Students often meet at libraries to discuss books with their tutors and read to their children.

Help Change A Life Today!

Why do our communities need a mobile one-on-one tutoring program?

Many adults who need English literacy classes are unable to enroll in most programs because they lack:

- Money to pay for classes and book fees
- Transportation to get to and from classes
- Childcare for young children

We're a free, caring mobile literacy program!

Is the Free Tutor Training Really Quick & Easy?

YES. We offer training sessions several times throughout the year. You will be trained in less than five hours how to use our easy-to-follow English literacy textbooks and workbooks. Our trainings are fun and dynamic!

We provide you with all of the teaching materials. We also provide on-site guidance. And there is always a friendly peer tutor around to offer help to new tutors.

To sign up for the next training session, call Tutors on Wheels at (708) 482-5035.

Where are the tutoring sites?

Tutors on Wheels volunteers meet with their students at local libraries, churches and partnering business sites in a community near you. The program's sister organization, School on Wheels, offers eight additional tutoring sites

We partner with businesses that give employees time to meet with our tutors at their work site. Improving literacy in the workplace improves worker safety and productivity.
